Fatherhood, parenting, family and lifestyle

Introducing

Dadbloguk.com

and John Adams

My name is John Adams. I'm married to Gill and we have two daughters, Helen, aged nine and Izzy aged six. We live in the South East of the United Kingdom, a short rail journey from London.

I launched Dadbloguk.com in 2012, a week before Izzy was born. The blog, which won the Best Dad Blog award at the inaugural Online Influence Awards in 2019, has followed my journey as I left full-time employment and took the unusual move to become the main carer for my children and run the family home. My wife, meanwhile, works full time to provide for the family.

As we face new challenges, the subjects I write about change. Whereas once I wrote about pregnancy and changing nappies, these days I am more likely to write about SATs tests, flexible working and how we are preparing for Helen to start secondary school. Dadbloguk.com is one of the few UK-based daddy blogs to follow a family as it has transitioned through pregnancy and birth, the early years and into the education system.

I am always open to partnerships and exploring ways to work together. Please do get in touch, I'd love to hear from you.

Ways we can work together

There are many ways we can work together. I am always open to new ideas and pride myself on a flexible approach (all work will be compliant with ASA rules, Google's rules regarding no follow links and GDPR).

Here are some ways we can in partnership:

- Brand partnerships
- Brand endorsements
- Sponsored (commissioned) blog posts and videos
- Hosting competitions
- Radio days / media spokesperson
- Personal appearances / event attendance
- Public speaking
- Social media posts including Instagram images, Instagram stories, tweets, Facebook posts, social media videos etc.
