

Introducing Dad Influencer

John Adams

Dad blog uk .com

I'm John Adams, a stay at/ work from home dad and live near London. I am married to Gill and we have two daughters, Helen, aged 11 and Izzy, aged seven.

Back in 2011 I became a stay at home dad and started blogging about my experiences shortly afterwards. Dadbloguk has followed my journey not only as a father, but as a man who volunteered to leave the workforce and run the family home.

As we face new challenges as a family, the subjects I write about change. Whereas once I wrote about pregnancy and changing nappies, these days I am more likely to write about the impact of Covid-19 on my family, education, flexible working, online safety and managing my children's screen time.
